In keeping with the tremendous growth and development of Florida, the level of recreational facilities and amenities has grown accordingly. Inspired by developers and municipalities who have seen the popularity of sport facilities, active water parks and municipal parks, Land Design South has been commissioned to design some of the most outstanding recreational parks in the South Florida region. The primary strategy that has emerged from the design development stage of both private and public recreation design has been to give the end user what they really want - be it a themed recreational park or an architectural feature which establishes the overall sense of place within a passive park.

Land Design South, a full-service landscape architecture firm, has worked within every realm of the recreational park concept. We have designed active water parks for municipalities which followed a concept of a tropical resort playground, to active sports fields for soccer, baseball and tennis complexes. Our designs have followed the concept of utilizing the lush Florida subtropics to create a park complex that weaves together pools, open plazas and lush tropical plantings which are linked together by water elements.
