The revitalization of downtown urban areas has become a focus for municipalities throughout the region. The rebuilding of older downtown centers where socioeconomic shifts have occurred requires the vision of updated, safe shopping areas, and residential districts. The key issue becomes working with government leaders and residents to identify their particular issues with design development and long term maintenance. Many of our creative design solutions begin with design charrettes with the end user. These charrettes generate ideas that suit the nature of the site while considering the needs of the stakeholders involved in design development. Our list of successes grows yearly.

The importance of strategic planning cannot be underplayed. The development of waterfront plazas and parks combines the need for focusing on the details of the projects to develop a singular identity for the park, whether through signage, site furniture, lighting, and fountain design. Our cohesive project planning enables us to involve people in the restoration and ultimately reinvestment of their community.
